About the ICB

The ICB was established in 1931 – and at 85 years old, we're still extremely passionate about what we do! Our role is to improve and maintain the quality of bookkeeping, accounting, office administration, business management and entrepreneurship training and qualifications in southern Africa. Which is a bit of a mouthful – but all it really means is we work hard to build the credibility and reputation of these fields.

With over 8 decades of experience, we really do know what's what. And this is why we've been a Quality Assurance Service Provider of the Finance and Accounting Services Sector Education and Training Authority (Fasset) for years. We're not a training provider – rather, we are an examining body for several Fasset business qualifications.

Clear career progression

ICB programmes, which are linked to nationally registered qualifications, will help make you employable. Your career could see you being in high demand in every industry – even during economic cycles when just staying employed is achievement enough for some.

Study programmes that open doors

Financial and business qualifications are not ‘just for university graduates’. Times – and tuition – have changed. Financial literacy is a scarce skill, and if you have it, it can open doors for you in almost every sector of the economy.

“ Studying through the ICB has opened up a new world of opportunity to me. The course is practical and it has restored my confidence – I’ve realised I can do anything I put my mind to.”

Tersia, Jeffreys Bay

1 Choose what to study

The ICB’s 5 study programmes have a strong emphasis on financial or administrative skills. In the Financial Stream you can choose what area you’d like to focus on: Financial Accounting, Public Sector Accounting, Business Management or Entrepreneurship. Think of it as being similar to choosing a major if you were doing a commerce degree or diploma.

The ICB’s mission is to give you the most relevant, practical and useful skills and knowledge that will make you employable and valuable.

You’ll be awarded your first ICB programme certificate (linked to a nationally registered qualification) after you complete just a few subjects successfully. You can then build on this at your own pace – achieving higher ICB programme levels and associated NQF qualifications as you progress.

If you need to take a short break in your studies, to focus on other priorities, you can. Simply pick up where you left off when you’re ready to start again. Just don’t leave it too long in case the subject material has changed.

ICB Financial Accounting Programme

Want to be able to offer indispensable bookkeeping and accounting skills, or become an accountant someday? This is the course for you. It will equip you with knowledge and practical skills in bookkeeping, financial accounting, income tax, financial management, reporting standards, corporate strategy, management accounting and research.

There are 12 subjects which build on each other. You'll complete the ICB Financial Accounting: Foundation Level of this programme (and achieve the National Certificate: Bookkeeping) after successfully passing just four subjects. Keep studying and you'll progress through the Intermediate levels to the final, Advanced Level.

This programme is ideal if you are:

- ✔ Keen to gain skills and knowledge that are useful in any business
 - ✔ Aiming to be employed in a finance department
 - ✔ Assisting with the finances of a growing company
- ✔ Thinking of opening your own bookkeeping practice one day
 - ✔ Known to have a good head for numbers

2 Decide how to study

Study options to suit your lifestyle

In a classroom, by correspondence, full time or part time? It's up to you!

Just finished school and can't wait for campus life? A working mom with lots of ambition, but very little time? On a mission to study intensively and qualify in just 6 months? Or maybe you have a longer term plan to study on the side while working full time?

Whatever your situation, there will be an ICB study route that works for you.

We have over 500 accredited training providers (colleges) across southern Africa. Whether you register for classroom or correspondence learning, you may have access to valuable online tutoring or telephone support from your college.

In a classroom

Studying full time at a college.

Most school leavers opt for this route, because they aren't working yet or tied down with too many commitments (lucky them!).

Studying part time at a college.

If you're working full time but really want to gain a qualification, this is a great option as you'll attend classes after hours every week. Part time studies can really increase your options if you're already employed but looking to up-skill and increase your job security, or even change jobs.

Video studies at a college.

If you can't always make scheduled classes, some colleges have the option of letting you watch pre-recorded lectures. Instead of attending fixed classes, you can book viewing times with your college that suit your lifestyle.

Monthly assessments

Colleges conduct formal assessments for classroom-based learners every month, but do double check when they're doing the assessments for the subjects you're interested in.

By correspondence

Correspondence is the most flexible and affordable way to study while still getting support from a college.

Register with a correspondence college and they will send you the tuition material you need for the courses you signed up for.

As a correspondence learner, you will have access to the college's helpline and support structures, so you won't really be going it alone.

You work through the material yourself, at your own pace, wherever you are. At the end of your course, you'll sit your final exam at the ICB assessment centre nearest to you.

Independent self-study (not recommended)

A final option, which we do not encourage, is for you to study an ICB course entirely on your own.

You will have no access to tutor support from any college, the textbook publishers or the ICB, if you choose to study independently.

This option does mean you can do the work at your own pace.

But you'll have to get hold of the course material yourself, and if you have any queries about the work, you'll need to find someone in your own network to help you out.

Q. How long do ICB courses last?

A. They range from 6 months to 3 years, depending on which course you are registered for. Each subject in the course should take about 48 hours of study before you write the final assessment.

“ Being in the ICB's programme has changed my mindset and my life. It has released my inner power. I can proudly say that I know I'm heading towards a brighter future for me and my children.”

Siyabonga, Nelspruit

Quarterly assessments

Assessments for correspondence and independent learners are conducted quarterly, at ICB-approved assessment centres around southern Africa. See timetables on pages 34 - 39.

The ICB vs your training provider

When you take your driving test, the traffic officer who tests you isn't the person who taught you to drive. And that's kind of how your training provider (college) and the ICB work. Your college will teach you during your course, or provide remote support if you're a correspondence learner. They'll sort you out with course materials and prepare you for your summative assessment (formal exam). The ICB is more like that traffic cop – we are an examining and assessment body and our job is to test your knowledge and decide whether you've made it or not.

Pick where to study

4 Start studying

Enter for assessment

Once you've chosen your training provider and the subjects you want to study, you'll need to enter for assessments for those subjects. Correspondence and independent learners must complete the Assessment Entry form available on www.icb.org.za and submit it along with the correct assessment fee to the ICB, showing the date you want to sit the assessment. If you're doing classroom-based study, you'll hand these forms to your college, who will enter your class as a group.

All learners will receive an email to confirm their assessment entry.

Course materials, tuition and support

Your college will give you your course material books, whether you are a classroom-based or correspondence learner. If you choose to study as an independent learner and not register with a college at all, you'll have to get your own course materials.

If you have queries about the work, please speak to your training provider.

They will be able to help you with questions about your subject content, theory, assignments, etc. If you've picked the independent learning route, where you've chosen NOT to study via any college, you will have to find the support you need yourself. The ICB is strictly only the external examining (assessment) and results-issuing body for these qualifications.

Your Portfolio of Evidence

Only once you've entered for an assessment for an ICB subject, will you be sent your Portfolio of Evidence (PoE) for it. The tests or assignments you do throughout the subject must be added to this folder, which is handed in with your final assessment.

It is YOUR responsibility to make sure you have the correct PoE for each of your subjects. Ask your college if you have not received any communication about this within 3-4 weeks of registering for an ICB assessment – or if any personal details on it are incorrect. Correspondence learners will be sent their PoE directly from the ICB via registered mail. You'll be able to track it using the Post Office's reference number (we'll SMS this to you) on www.trackandtrace.co.za – or you can contact your local post office to find out if your PoE is there. If it doesn't arrive, please contact the ICB.

Your PoE folder also contains the Administration Book, which tells you how to complete your PoE. It is an important document that you must fill in and submit with your PoE. Read through the Administration Book and the Assessment Policy in it very carefully, and follow the instructions. Start working through your PoE right away – use it to guide your learning.

	Classroom learning	Correspondence studies	Independent studies
Register	Your college will assist you with registration, courses, workload and study materials. They'll register you with the ICB.	Your college will advise you on courses, workload and study materials. You will need to register with the ICB yourself.	Register as a learner with the ICB and not with a college. You choose your courses, workload and study materials yourself.
Enter assessments	Your college will help you decide which assessments to sit when and enter you for them.	Enter yourself by email, fax or online via our Learner Portal and you choose which subjects you'd like to be assessed in.
Pay	You pay your college fees, your ICB registration and assessment fees all to your college.	You pay your college fees to the college. Summative assessment (formal exams)	The first 8 Accounting Programme subjects are assessed at ICB-accredited colleges every month. All others are assessed there quarterly. You'll hand in your completed PoE and the formal exam's question and answer books. These are sent to the ICB for assessing (marking).	These are held quarterly at ICB-approved assessment venues around southern Africa.
Results	Your results will be sent by the ICB to your college who will let you know if you are 'competent' or 'not yet competent' in your subject.	Your results will be available to download from the ICB Learner Portal and will be emailed to you.
Certificates	After you're 'competent' in a qualification, you'll receive an ICB Programme certificate via your college within 2 months of the results release date and a Fasset certificate after 3+ months.	After you're 'competent' in a qualification, you'll receive an ICB Programme certificate/s in the post from us within 2 months of the results release date and a Fasset certificate after 3+ months.
Re-assessment	Speak to your college about this. If you're ' not yet competent ' and it was not already a re-assessment you had written, you may apply for a re-assessment and sit only a summative exam again , within 12 months. Under some circumstances, you'll have to re-enter the subject from scratch and do a new PoE.	Speak to the ICB about this.	Speak to the ICB about this.

Assessment dates and venues

Assessments take place at the ICB-approved assessment centres around southern Africa in February, May, August and November.

Most colleges hold assessments on-site every month, so check with yours what their schedule is. See the timetables on pages 34 - 39 for dates. The list of assessment centres is on page 39. If you forget to put an assessment date or venue on your Assessment Entry Form, you'll be assigned to the next available date and/or the centre closest to you.

Learner Portal

Follow the link on www.icb.org.za

You can register as an ICB student on our Learner Portal website, and once you have an ICB reference number, you can log in and do all sorts of useful things online:

- View and edit your contact details.
- Order certificate reprints for a full qualification.
- Pay your ICB fees using a credit card (and other usual methods).

Correspondence learners only can also:

- Enter for assessments.
- See your exam results.

Q. I can't decide between college and independent study. What should I choose?

A. College study (classroom-based or correspondence) is the option we always recommend, as you'll get help from a college if you are stuck with any of the coursework. If you're studying independently, you're entirely on your own. Independent study works for very few people – you must be very proactive, resourceful and have a great support network to do it successfully. The college route can be flexible, and offers you support.

Q. If I'm studying an ICB course independently, can I call the ICB for help with assignments or understanding the course material? A. No. If you've chosen this route, you've opted to study completely solo. You'll have to find the answers yourself through your family, friends, colleagues or the internet.

ICB Fees 2016

Only correspondence and independent learners pay ICB fees directly to us. Classroom-based learners will be billed by their colleges.

PLEASE NOTE: In order to receive your PoE or be entered for exams, you must have sent your assessment entry form with proof of fee payment to the ICB – or your college.

At the time you enter for the first assessment of a (calendar) year, the annual student registration fee is payable.

If you cancel a scheduled assessment, fees can't be refunded. Assessment of subjects can be postponed only once, if we have received your postponement fee and forms on time. Incorrectly completed forms or insufficient fees will result in assessment applications not being accepted.

All fees are not refundable. Fees are quoted in South African Rands and may change without prior notice. Fees listed include 14% VAT for SA and bank charges for payments from other countries.

5 Final assessments

Your formal assessment

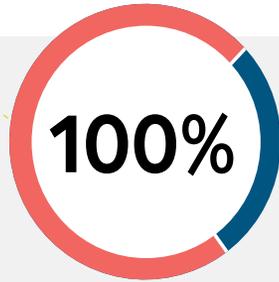

At the end of your subject, ICB assessors will figure out if you know your stuff or not. We do this via a summative assessment (formal exam) as well as via exercises, assignments and practicals (formative assessment) that you've done over the period of your course.

All your formative assessment work must be added to your PoE folder as you go along, and your final exam papers will be too. This is proof that you have done the work and understand the material.

IMPORTANT: You can only be assessed if you have entered for the assessment before its closing date, and paid your annual ICB student registration and assessment fees. See our 2016 fee schedule on page 23.

Assessment timetables: See pages 34-39

What counts for what

70%
Your formal exam

Summative assessment (final exam)

70% of your final mark comes from your final assessment – a sit-down exam. You will need to get at least 50% for this to pass, regardless of your overall mark.

30%
Work done while you're studying your subject

Activity 1
Activity 2
Activity 3
Evaluation 1
Evaluation 2

30% of your final mark comes from the activities and evaluations you do during your subject. These exercises are essential as they fully prepare you for the summative assessment.

Your pass mark: 60%

60% is the mark you need to get overall to be declared competent.

Depending on how you do in your assessments, you'll either be assessed as COMPETENT or NOT YET COMPETENT.

Getting your results and certificates

Results: Your results will be available on the results release date (see pages 34 - 39 for these). Results are never given out over the phone. Results for classroom-based college learners are sent to the college. If you're studying via correspondence with a college, or independently, your results will be available on the Learner Portal and will be emailed to you on the day they're released.

Certificates: When you complete any of the ICB Programme Levels, you'll get two certificates. The ICB Programme Certificate is issued by the ICB and shows you have achieved a specific level in a particular stream, e.g. ICB Financial Accounting: Advanced Level.

You'll also receive another certificate – your qualification certificate – which is issued by Fasset. You can expect your qualification certificate from Fasset to arrive about 3 months after your results are released. You'll get this from your college if you're a classroom-based learner; correspondence learners will receive their certificates in the post, via the ICB.

Re-assessment: A second chance

If you are assessed as 'not yet competent' in a subject (you did not pass it), you will have a chance to write one re-assessment, which is only a summative final exam with a pass mark of 60% (no PoE required – the exam counts fully towards your grade). You must complete the re-assessment within 12 months of your original summative assessment date. We do recommend you write your re-assessments as soon as you can, as subject content does change. It's your responsibility to make sure you know what material has been updated.

If you miss your re-assessment, or you are 'not yet competent' in it, you can't redo it. You will need to re-enter for the subject and start it over by completing a new PoE.

IMPORTANT: You may only request ONE postponement per assessment from the ICB. Your assessment will automatically be moved to the next scheduled assessment date.

Postponing an assessment

If you need to postpone your assessment before your assessment date, check the Assessment Timetables on pages 34 - 39 to see when you need to submit postponements by, as there are cut-offs for these for each assessment cycle. If you are on time, you can postpone by paying the postponement fee. If you need to postpone your assessment because you're ill on the day, you can apply for a free postponement (include a doctor's certificate with your request), which may be issued at the ICB's discretion. Assessment for subjects can be postponed once only. See Section 5 of the Assessment Policy.

You will have to start your subject over from scratch, by re-entering and starting a new PoE if:

- You don't postpone your assessment and miss it (are absent).
- You apply for postponement after the cut-off date.
- You have already postponed your assessment once for this subject.

Q. Can I just show up at an assessment and write the exam? A. No. To be allowed to write a summative assessment (formal exam) for a subject, you must have entered the assessment for that subject, paid for it, had the ICB confirm your registration – and you must have done all the coursework for the subject too.

Q. I submitted my PoE but didn't include all my assessments. Can I submit these later? A. No, you need to make 100% sure that everything is included in your PoE before you submit it. The ICB cannot accept any additional materials for marking after you've handed it in. Only what you hand in at your assessment will be marked.

Q. What if there's no assessment centre near where I live? A. The ICB arranges assessment venues throughout southern Africa and a detailed list is available on www.icb.org.za. If you live and work more than 200km from an official assessment centre, you can submit a Private Invigilator Application to the ICB with the prescribed fee, which will be considered on an individual basis. If a new centre opens after you've submitted your application, we reserve the right to allocate you to it.

Q. Can you send me past papers so I can practice for my exam please? A. Nope, sorry. Past papers are not available because if outcomes change, past papers will be out-dated - plus we need to protect the credibility of the papers. Your course materials (which do contain sample questions) and the assignments and evaluations that go into your PoE will prepare you for the questions in your final exam. Please speak to your training provider if you feel you need extra help.

What you can do with your ICB qualifications

As well as making you attractive to employers and clients, your ICB qualifications can also lead you to these opportunities:

Study further with the ICB

Accredited, reputable and recognised qualifications

All ICB qualifications are accredited on the National Qualifications Framework (NQF) by the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) and the Zambian Vocational Qualifications Framework.

Our programmes are valued by employers, and our graduates are recognised locally and internationally by several professional bodies.

ICB qualifications are modular, which means you can build on them as your studies or career progress. Gain your first qualification and keep going straight away, or take a short break, and pick up the next level a little later.

Find a job

In association with CareerJunction, South Africa's hugely popular job site, you can search and apply for financial and admin positions at www.icb.org.za/careers

Study further elsewhere with credit for your ICB qualification

By studying further with a number of organisations that recognise ICB qualifications, even more career opportunities are available to you:

Tax practitioner:

If you hold the ICB's Financial Accounting Programme: Upper Intermediate Level (NQF Level 5), you can apply to the South African Institute of Tax Professionals (SAIT) for registration as a Tax Practitioner. See www.thesait.org.za

Chartered Institute of Management Accountants

Management accountants:

The Chartered Institute of Management Accountants also grants exemptions for certain ICB subjects for students who want to pursue a career in management accounting. See www.cimaglobal.com

Chartered secretary:

Chartered Secretaries Southern Africa offers several professional qualifications in this specific field of corporate governance, and grants exemptions for certain ICB subjects. See www.chartsec.co.za

Chartered certified accountant:

Our NQF Level 6 ICB Financial Accounting Programme: Advanced Level graduates can study further through the Association of Chartered Certified Accountants (ACCA) to become Chartered Certified Accountants. See www.accaglobal.com

Join a professional body

With your ICB qualification in hand, you might want to further increase your professional profile and network by joining one of the following bodies as a member, all of whom welcome ICB graduates:

The Institute of Certified Bookkeepers and Accountants (ICBA) www.icba.org.za

The International Association of Accounting Professionals (IAAP) www.accountingprofessional.org

The Southern African Institute for Business Accountants (SAIBA) www.saiba.org.za

The International Association of Bookkeepers (IAB) www.iab.org.uk

South African Institute of Tax Professionals (SAIT) www.thesait.org.za

Being a member of a professional body shows you are committed to taking your career seriously. Most of these organisations offer their members several benefits, which can include designations (letters after your name), offers and discounts, networking opportunities and more.

They usually require members to keep their knowledge up to date by completing a specific number of Continuing Professional Development hours every year. Employers or clients will feel more reassured hiring someone who is a member of a professional body as it shows you're serious about your career.

The ICB's sister organisations:

ICBA

Institute of Certified Bookkeepers and Accountants

The Institute of Certified Bookkeepers and Accountants (ICBA) is a professional body for qualified finance and office administration professionals in southern Africa. It used to be part of the ICB but separated from it in 2013.

As a professional body, the ICBA certifies qualifications, awards designations and offers a range of benefits to our members.

As a Qualified Member of the ICBA, you can put the following letters after your name:

Membership

Designation

Student	None
Certified Junior Bookkeeper	CJB1cba(SA)
Certified Public Accounts Administrator	CPAA1cba(SA)
Certified Senior Bookkeeper	CSB1cba(SA)
Certified Technical Financial Accountant	CTFA1cba(SA)
Certified Technical Public Accountant	CTPA1cba(SA)
Certified Junior Office Administrator	CJOA1cba(SA)
Certified Senior Office Administrator	CSOA1cba(SA)
Certified Financial Accountant	CFA1cba(SA)
Certified Office Manager	COM1cba(SA)

The ICBA welcomes members who have relevant, recognised work experience and qualifications from tuition providers including (but not limited to) the ICB.

ITHSA

www.ith.org.za

The Chartered Institute of Tourism and Hospitality (ITH) is a similar organisation to the ICB, operating in the tourism and hospitality sector. If you are interested in a career in this exciting field, the ITH could help you make your dreams come true.

The ITH accredits southern African training providers and supports them in rolling out the UK's Confederation of Tourism and Hospitality (CTH) British-registered qualifications.

The CTH's internationally recognised courses range from short courses to post-graduate level qualifications in:

- Tourism and travel
- Hospitality and hotel management
- Culinary skills and chef training
- Leadership in tourism and hospitality
- English for the tourism and hospitality industry
- Entrepreneurship in tourism and hospitality

All courses are registered on the United Kingdom's National Qualifications or Qualifications and Credit Frameworks, and not on the South African National Qualifications Framework. Over 35 universities recognise these qualifications as being equivalent to degree-level studies.

The CTH is endorsed by all kinds of important industry figures and brands, including:

Learnerships

Theory + on-the-job experience

If you're working already, and your employer is an ICB-accredited Workplace Training Provider, you could get an ICB qualification via a learnership*. You'd do the qualification via the ICB's usual assessments but the practical part would be done while you're working on the job. You would also need to complete an ICB Workplace Portfolio of Evidence (PoE), which will be reviewed by an ICB assessor.

Learnerships are great for employees, as you can earn while you learn. Some learners even get their studies subsidised by their employers, as learnerships also offer incentives to companies.

* Not all ICB courses are offered as learnerships.

For more information, please see the Learnerships section on the ICB website:
www.icb.org.za/qualifications/learnerships

Q. Do I have to be employed to be able to study via a learnership? A. Yes, you must be employed. Your employer must be accredited by the ICB as a Workplace Training Provider to offer our learnerships.

Q. Do you have a list of companies that offer learnerships? A. No, you will need to approach companies yourself.

Q. Can the ICB give me a learnership? A. Unfortunately not. We are not a training provider. The ICB's role in learnerships is to assess your theoretical work, and your practical experience (your Workplace PoE).

Recognising prior learning

Perhaps you've picked up some qualifications or courses in the past that include subjects/learning areas that are similar to the ICB's. Or you've got some solid experience working in a relevant field.

To be considered for exemptions/Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) and credit towards an ICB qualification (note: this is not guaranteed), your previous qualifications or part-qualifications must be registered on the NQF and should have been attained within the last five years. If your NQF-registered qualifications are more than five years old, you will also need to provide proof of more recent, relevant work experience.

To apply for Recognition of Prior Learning (RPL) you'll need to submit:

- The ICB Learner Details form and Guidelines for Recognition of Prior Learning form.
- Proof of payment of the ICB's RPL application fee.
- Your detailed CV.
- Certified true copies of your official transcripts of results, as issued by your previous training institution.
- International students must get their non-South African qualifications/subjects certified by the South African Qualifications Authority (SAQA) first. Please attach the relevant SAQA Certificate of Evaluation of Foreign Qualifications.
- The accreditation number of the training provider who awarded your previous qualifications/part-qualifications (e.g. DHET, Seta's QAP, Umalusi, CHE).
- The NQF level and SAQA qualification registration number for your previous courses. e.g. For the National Certificate: Bookkeeping the NQF level is Level 3 and the SAQA number is 58375.

RPL Documents

DOWNLOAD the ICB Learner Details form and the Guidelines for Recognition of Prior Learning from www.icb.org.za/downloads or give our office a call.

We'll review your application and may offer you credits based on subjects you've already passed, or we may ask you to complete a RPL Portfolio of Evidence (PoE) which we will supply.

If you qualify for exemptions and want to go ahead and accept these credits, you will need to pay another fee to be granted full or conditional exemptions, and remember: you must be registered with the ICB too.

See page 23 for RPL fees.

ICB Bursaries

We know that some of the keenest and most deserving learners find it hard to pay for their studies.

In 2015 the ICB awarded 25 bursaries, each worth R5,000. The best part is that our bursaries do not have to be repaid.

We just ask that recipients put them to really good use and study hard!

How to apply for an ICB bursary

To be eligible for an ICB bursary you must:

Already be studying an ICB programme or qualification.

Have a good academic and attendance record.

Between January and April, the bursary application form can be downloaded from www.icb.org.za

For bursaries in 2016, make sure your application reaches the ICB by 30 April 2016.

Successful applicants will be contacted by 30 June 2016.

Q. What are the criteria for awarding bursaries?

A. ICB bursaries are awarded according to academic performance, financial need and any special circumstances.

Q. Do you award the bursaries in cash?

A. No. Bursaries are paid directly to an ICB-accredited institution or other relevant ICB accredited service providers.

Our policies and procedures

The fine print

You've heard it on the adverts: "Terms and conditions apply." If you've decided you'd like to study an ICB programme, please take some time to read through our Assessment Policy. It explains the terms and conditions attached to our programmes and assessments.

We update this policy regularly and you can always download it from www.icb.org.za, find it in the Admin Booklet in your Portfolio of Evidence, or contact our office (see back cover for contact details) and we'll send it to you.

Glossary of terms

Assessment: A test of your knowledge, e.g. an exam. Marking of assignments.

Bursary: Money awarded to help deserving students pay for their courses. Bursaries do not need to be repaid.

College: See (ICB) Training provider.

Competent: You know your stuff – you’ve passed your assessment.

Correspondence learning: Studies done without physical contact or classrooms – e.g. via mail, email or internet.

Dissertation: A written thesis, based on original research.

Face-to-face learning: Studies done in a classroom environment.

Fasset: The Finance and Accounting Services Sector Education and Training Authority.

Formative assessment: Tests and assignments during your course.

Assessment timetable A

For classroom-based learners

Assessments are written at your college.

Please confirm the times for each timeslot with your training provider.

Big dates:

These dates will be important to you – they're when you'll write your final (summative) assessments and submit your Portfolios of Evidence for the ICB subjects you choose to study.

Make sure you enter for each assessment well before its closing date. If you're studying through a college, these are the dates they need to send your applications to us by, so make sure you let them know your choices well in advance.

Assessment timetable A

For classroom-based learners

Assessments are written at your college.

Please confirm the times for each session with your training provider.

Big dates:

These dates will be important to you – they're when you'll write your final (summative) assessments and submit your Portfolios of Evidence for the ICB subjects you choose to study.

Make sure you enter for each assessment well before its closing date.

If you're studying through a college, these are the dates they need to send your applications to us by, so make sure you let them know your choices well in advance.

Q. What is the difference between the two assessment timetables in this prospectus?

A. Timetable A is for learners who are doing classroom studies at a college. Colleges usually offer assessments every month at their own premises for the first eight subjects of the Accounting Programme. The rest are offered four times a year. Check with yours whether they are offering the particular subjects you're interested in on these dates. Timetable B is for correspondence and independent self-study learners. Assessments for these study routes are conducted four times a year at ICB-approved assessment venues around South Africa and Namibia.
